1558.

PRUDENCE PRATT, daughter of Capt. William Pratt, born March 11, 1685, was married to William Brockway, October 13, 1716, by whom she had two children, and perhaps others who do not appear on the town records. They are the ancestors of all the Brockways in what was formerly the town of Say-Brook and vicinity.

Mr. William Brockway died ——. Mrs. Prudence Brockway died ——.

1559.

DEACON EBENEZER PRATT, son of Capt. William Pratt, born August 17, 1688, married a lady whose Christian name was Abigail, but whose family name has not been ascertained. He served the Second Church of Say-Brook, Pautapaug, in the office of Deacon, for many years previous to his decease. He died September 8, 1756, in his sixty-ninth year. His tombstone may be seen in the ancient burial-ground at Essex. According to the probate records at Guilford, October 5, 1756, "Jabez Pratt, in behalf of Abigail Pratt, executor of the will of Deacon Ebenezer Pratt." In said will he gives his property to his wife, Abigail, while his widow; to his beloved kinsman, Ebenezer, son of his kinsman, Benjamin Pratt; beloved kinsmen, Jared Pratt and Jabez Pratt. From his manner of disposing of his property it may be fairly inferred that he left no children.

1560.

JABEZ PRATT, youngest child of Capt. William Pratt, born May 19, 1691, married Deborah Pratt, his cousin, and daughter of Deacon Nathanael Pratt, youngest son of Lieut. William Pratt, November 24, 1719. He accumulated, as appears by his inventory, a large property. There are no children recorded on the town records, but three are named in the distribution of his estate, according to his will presented in court of probate at Guilford, by his only son, Jabez Pratt, December 9, 1755. He died October 9, 1755, aged 65. [See his tombstone in the old burial-ground at Essex.]
